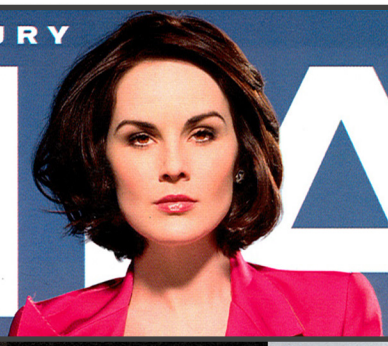
MODERN LUXURY
MIAMI



Fabiane Ribeiro, Lee Dahlberg and Christie Madden

Marina Mikhailov and Julieen Charouhis

The scene at the Vanderbilt Mansion ballroom

Barbara Evans performs for the crowd.

Peggy Smith and Joni Carosella

Vanessa Adamatti, Alyssa Arce and Carrie Amstutz

Anejade Vaccarella and Julie Crampe

ON THE SCENE

By Michael Muzquiz

Estate Value

Fisher Island lifts the curtain on its $60 million Vanderbilt Mansion redo!

THE PARTY

After six years and $60 million, the Fisher Island Club finally revealed the long-due restoration of its historic Vanderbilt Mansion and its club amenities with a 1940s-themed party that nodded to the estate's storied past and legacy.

THE CROWD

Fisher Island Club CEO Bernard Lackner, alongside representatives from Van Cleef & Arpels (which co-sponsored the evening), welcomed more than 400 Fisher Island Club members and assorted VIPs for an evening that celebrated the Vanderbilt family's glory days, when the clan would lavishly entertain the luminaries of the era in the secluded enclave.

THE HIGHLIGHTS

As models walked about the party showcasing carats and carats of Van Cleef & Arpels baubles, attendees enjoyed all varieties of social pleasures: a big band performance, synchronized swimming numbers at the Vanderbilt Mansion pool, a vintage car showcase featuring restored Rolls-Royce models and a strolling magician. Sustenance was kept in check with an etched ice table featuring an array of caviars and hors d'oeuvres, and a scotch tasting station with Prohibition-era cocktails. Past perfect, indeed.

MIAMI 3930 NE SECOND AVE., SUITE 201, MIAMI, FL 33137
MODERNLUX

Kreps DeMaria
Public Relations & Marketing
25 YEARS